Scot Weicker and Daphne Dixon announce 2nd annual Live Green Connecticut! to be held in September in Norwalk, CT

The second annual Live Green Connecticut! will be held Sept. 17 and 18 at Taylor Farm Park in Norwalk, Connecticut.

Scot Weicker and Daphne Dixon stated: "We are very excited to be organizing the 2nd annual Live Green Connecticut! Last year's inaugural event was a huge success and far exceeded our expectations. It was a win for Connecticut, for Norwalk and for the environment. We hope this year's event will once again exceed expectations!"

In 2010, more than 150 green exhibitors featured a variety of products, services and green education opportunities and attracted more than 4500 attendees over the course of two days. The event, the first of its kind in Connecticut, was considered a major success not only within the green community, but throughout Connecticut.

Weicker and Dixon continued: "Exhibitors and attendees alike have been calling and asking about the details of Live Green Connecticut! and looking to get involved. The family-friendly festival welcomes everyone and is "where green meets mainstream". We are planning a fun-filled weekend with exhibits, speakers, local food, children's activities, money saving tips and green education. What started out last year as a relatively small regional event has truly become a statewide event! We encourage everyone to visit our website <http://www.livegreenct.com> to see exciting news and developments, and for anyone with a green product or service to join us as an exhibitor.
